

The current professional position PhD Regis Rouge-Oikarinen is research Director in an ESF-project called “ThinkBarents” at Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Lapland, Finland. His research fields include International and Cross-Border Relations, Geopolitics, Nationalism Studies, Methodological Studies, European and Russian Studies.

Rouge-Oikarinen’s expertise includes qualitative research design, implementation and analysis, bridging quantitative and qualitative research methodologies, and project management. His formal geographical education and experience in both the social and natural sciences allows him to combine a multiplicity of methodologies and theoretical approaches. He has a commitment to mixed method research practices and understands the importance of developing research at a multiscale level.